Problem Statement

Students have a great deal of difficulty keeping track of assignments and forgetting about deadlines and need an easy and organized way to keep track of both their assignments and courses.

Who is experiencing the problem?

Students at the University of South Carolina.

What is the problem?

Students lose track of assignments and deadlines and fall behind in their classes as a result

Where does the problem present itself?

Anywhere that requires scheduling, either class meetings or due dates for assignments.

Why does it matter?

A good student can be forgetful for many reasons. A reminder of class in a few minutes or of an assignment due the next day can be a huge help to all kinds of students.
